Quartermaster Sergeant of Sedgwick Post as Busy as Ever. Not many who were present at the campfire of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. Stocking, who was actively serving on the entertainment committee with Quartermaster Charles F. Geer and Adjutant George Kampf. Those who happened to know congratulated who happened to know congratulated him upon the vigor with which he is still blessed after fourscore years of active life, and wished him many more of health and helpfulness.

duartermaster Sergeant Stocking's first introduction to Norwich was when he was about 1 year old his parents at that time moving here from Manchester, Conn., where he had been born. They lived at the Falls and later in Greeneville, Mr. Stocking growing up to young manhood here and learning the orbital partners. ing the cabinet making and upholster-ing trade. In '54 he was married, his bride being Miss Carter of this city. Their golden wedding anniversary date was passed six years ago, and there seem prospects for many more anni-versaries.

About the opening of the civil war Mr. Stocking was in Boston and a member of the crack Ninth regiment of that city. The regiment enlisted entire and became the Fifteenth Massachusetts, selecting a gray uniform exactly like that of the famous Seventh of New York. Mr. Stocking still has several pieces of the uniform which he has preserved. For the first sixteen months he was commissary of the regiment. the regiment, then quartermaster ser-weant, and later quarier sister, when he resigned at the end of two years and a half and entered the govern-ment service in Washington under Commissiary General Rutter. Here he was about two years, returning then to Leominster, Mass., where he went into business with a partner in the furniture business. After the death of his partner he went to New York in 1886 and was there for 28 years. Most of the time he was in charge of a large furniture warehouse, and the last eight years in business for himself, having the patronage of the very best trade in the metropolis. In 1892 he retired and returned to Norwich, where he has since lived, and is one of the best-known men in Grand Army circles, as he has been in charge of the post home, the Buckingham Memorial, for many years.

AT BROADWAY THEATER. Choice Vaudeville and Interesting Mo tion Pictures.

Broadway theater has a big attraction this week in the Schaar-Wheeler trio comedy, sensational bicyclists. The two men and a woman have some clever work which is most creditably done, and calls forth much applause throughout the act. They ride wheels in every conceivable position and do a triple act riding their bicycles with only the rear wheels on the floor and waitzing about as if it was the most ordinary accomplishment. The comedy features of the act are excellent. It is easily the best bicycle act seen here. Walton and Vivian entertain in their skit, The Actor and the Girl, and get a good hand for their comedy. The Ramsey sisters furnish a pleasing number good hand for their comedy. The Ramsey sisters furnish a pleasing number as the opener, having a line of bright comedy, while their playing on several instruments meets with popular favor. Ernest Dupille opens as a coster singer and handles the role well, and later appears with good results in songs and jokes, which strike a responsive chord.

Starting this week the daily change in pictures went into effect, and this feature promises to be a big card for the house. There were his sufference the house. There were big audie at all three shows Monday.
